

In Between The Lines

Tyrone Wells

Another stop sign, another headline
Another broken song
Learning the labels, lessons and fables
I forgot

Under the surface, lost in the verses
There is a rising tide
We're trying to rescue the meaning
If only for tonight
If only for tonight

In between the lines and the boulevards
Underneath the sky chasing who we are
Wanting more before it slips away
Screaming to the stars just to feel alive
Maybe one more chance and we'll get it right
I won't believe, that all these days
And all these dreams were only meant to fade

Zero to sixty, running on empty
Tell me what have we become
Haunted by secrets
Shadows and demons hide the sun
But out of the darkness
Don't care what they call this
I won't let you down this time

In between the lines and the boulevards
Underneath the sky chasing who we are
Wanting more before it slips away
Screaming to the stars just to feel alive
Maybe one more chance and we'll get it right
I won't believe, that all these days
And all these dreams were only meant to fade

In between the lines and Underneath the sky (only meant to fade)
Screaming at the stars
Just to feel alive, just to feel alive

We're trying to rescue the meaning
To do more than just survive
We're dying to capture the feeling
If only for tonight

In between the lines and the boulevards
Underneath the sky chasing who we are
Wanting more before it slips away
Screaming to the stars just to feel alive
Maybe one more chance and we'll get it right
I won't believe, that all these days
And all these dreams were only meant to fade