The Machine

Tysondog

You harmonize The noise levels wrong But what can you do You can't apologize The song will take a nose dive and so will you

In this mixed up music haven The mighty fall the weak grow strong I can't start to tell you How to do the things that we do (we just do it) The machine is getting hungry And it's tired, it's needs new blood

But if you qualify For a session then you're doing alright But if you play and die It's time to put out the light and say goodbye

There's a lot of uphill climbing So reach the top and try to stay You won't live forever You've got to keep yourself together (thru whatever) The stage is set and waiting there The spotlights searching the crowd is there

Lead Break

They'll critisize You'll take some knocks along the way but what do you care?
