Nothing

I've got nothing left For you to take away I know you blame me For every time you walked away So what You hate me and everything I seem to do So look back Don't turn away It was my face that you were lying to And in my life you could find Everything just seperates And in my life you could find Everything you want to take away I got nothing I got nothing I got nothing So what It's not the same Every word out of your mouth is shit So look back Don't turn away I'm sick, I'm through And I'm fed up with this And in my life you could find Everything just seperates And in my life you could find Everything you want to take away I got nothing I got nothing I got nothing [whispers] Please, take it all from me [whispers] Please, take it all from me It's all, it's all As everything just seperates I know, I know You give but you take it all away So what You hate me and everything I seem to do I know you You blame me for everytime I walk out on you I've got nothing I got nothing I got nothing I got nothing
