

and i could never give in
and i could never feel small
and i could let it all go now i've found somewhere to fall wire and chain you cast upon me still remain walk with your words within me taking their toll upon me hearing them still running around inside until time and again they remind me no matter how distant you'll never be free

and i could never give in
and i could never feel small
and i could let it all go
now i've found somewhere to fall

look at me now what can you hear fierce conversations gone on for years fighting back words with words of war leaving you speechless but crying for more talk to me now and try to explain to someone who won't jump at shadows again finding my feet and i'm standing fighting a fight that i can win

and i could never give in
and i could never feel small
and i could let it all go
now i've found somewhere to fall
and i could never give in
and i could never feel small
and i could let it all go
now i've found somewhere to fall