Last Night Again

Uncle Kracker

The days seem so familiar There's something about the evenings Even though they change every now and then Well, I can be myself here And I can free myself here I can't believe it's last night again I see things go down, I hear the talk of the town Like an echo in my ear If you should look for me, I'll be right here I can leave myself here Or I could use some help here I can't believe it's last night again It's a lonesome sound when this bar shuts down So I guess I'll have one more Nothin' out there I ain't seen before I can leave myself here I could use some help here I can't believe it's last night again I can't believe it's last night again I can't believe it's last night again
