

Juanita

Underworld

You rails
You're thin
Your thin paper wings
Your thin paper wings

In the wind
Dangling
Your sun
Fly high
Your windows shattering

Your rails
You're thin
Your thin paper wings

Sugar box
Sugar boy
Riding in Riding in
Sugar box
Sugar boy
Handheld candle
Sugar boy

You rails
You're thin
Your thin paper wings
Your thin paper wings

In the wind
Dangling
Your sun
Fly high
Your windows shattered in the wind
Your coca cola sign
Rattling
Rattling

Resonator
Homeless trees
Gathering
Outside your windows bootleg babies call to you and lie among the mosquitoes
That summers fever comming
Cats are gathering outside your window
Homeless trees
Bootleg babies calling to you
Lie among
Lie among the mosquitoes

Your rails
You're thin
Your thin paper wings

Get up in your sun
Fly high
Dangling
Dangling

Your windows shattered in the wind
The sun on your coca cola sing

Your rails
Your thin paper wings
Paper wings

Resonator

There is a sound on the other side of this wall
A bird is singing on the other side of this glass
Footsteps
Concealed
Silence is preserving a voice
Walking in the wind at the waters edge comes close to covering my rubber feet
Listening to the barbed wire hanging

There is a sound on the other side of this wall
A bird is singing on the other side of this glass
Footsteps
Concealed
Silence is preserving a voice
Silver chain
Thrown away
Broken wing