

Ever Since

Unicorn

Music by Unicorn, Lyrics by Dan Swanø/Unicorn

Sitting here alone, waiting for someone to take me away from loneliness

And I wonder for how long do I have to wait for someone to caress?

And though I dream of love it's so hard to define.

And there's no one around that I want to be mine, to be mine.

And Ever Since the rain fell on my lonely heart

I realize that there's no cure for love.

And ever since the wind blew through my tiny soul I wonder who will I be dreaming of?

Be dreaming of.

Just another day, feeling just the same because someone put out my only flame.

And I know by now that all clichés,
they have a meaning in this empty space.

I try to concentrate and sort out who I need.

But no one's there to fill the heart that I must feed.

That I must feed.

Ever since the rain fell from the skies of hope my eyes are filled with tears that soon will flow.

And ever since the wind blew thru my tiny soul.

I realize the way that I must go.

And I found a way to follow.

It led me to another view.

Love had found a clue.

Somewhere down the lonely road she came passing by.

I no longer feel the rain falling from the sky.

Now I'm king and she's my queen.

We have gained the throne.

Now the fields are evergreen.

My heart is not alone.

Now the rain has gone away and the sky is clear and blue.

The sun's been shining since the day, the day that I found you.

You're the meaning of my life, the one that makes me sign.

Since the day you dried my heart.

You are everything!