

Where we're going none of. this really matters what evolution ladder? building toward leaving the human body of obsoletequality your mind in a box a virtual everafter no muscles to create laughter in a second you can change your perception life, at the speed of light no more day and night "the prophecy of annihilation is not nearly enough to stop the human consciousness from pressing it's own luck" too bad too late the process has begun it's all been said and done between big minds hidden behind black projects it's not plausible to deny this
