Reflections

Unitopia

In a time of bitter reflection
In self made solitude
Have we come too far, is it much too late?
Have we overshot the mark?

In a time of desolation
As we search our inner selves
Do we blame each other or curse on high?
Do we live life in the dark?
Put on the mask and hide the pain
Don't let another inside again
Escape from the world, don't let them see
What you keep hidden among the debris

The cry of your heart, the warmth of your soul Are drowned in the rivers of total control And all that you had is slipping away Replaced by illusion that starts to decay

Put on the mask and hide the pain Don't let another inside again Escape from the world, don't let them see What you keep hidden among the debris

The cry of your heart, the warmth of your soul Are drowned in the rivers of total control And all that you had is slipping away Replaced by illusion that starts to decay