

All Year Round

Up Dharma Down

I'm tired of swimming through solar systems
Looking for my earth to call home
Where the water's sweet
And the air seems meek
All year round warmth
Is all I'll ever want
All I'll ever need
Until the light shine's gone
When my head's struck down

I'm tired of running through street marshes
Where drunks drive the world to it's edge
Looking for a place to sleep in peace
All year round warmth
Is all I'll ever want
All I'll ever need
Until the light shine's gone
When my head's struck down

Won't you see and turn around

Hello Anybody home?
