

I took a walk outside and carried thoughts of you with me to the ocean.

A faded image seen from far away reminded me of you.

Maybe now it's time to let it out.

If I say hello, would you hide away?

While the dream of love at first sight dies out.

Here I am losing you once again, tonight.

I know where you're at and I know even better that I got a crush on since the summer came around.

If you'd listen up, give me a chance to express the way I feel.

I promise you we'd be alright.

If I say goodbye, would it be the last?

2 more years and you might know me.

I will be the one singing this melody to you...

Nothing left to say since you heard it all.

But there's one more thing you should know.

Ever since that day I can't stop thinking of you.