Cowboy

Van Dyke Parks

Paniolo cowboy in a field of sugar cane Once there was a forest where they hid there in the rain Cowboy bowboy cowboy Wanderin wahine under locks of raven hair Beads of inspiration Hoping he would not forget just where Heyup cowboy

Up above the canopy in the highest branches of a tree He would take her longingly and say One day you'll belong to me

I forgot to mention it was nineteen forty-one Zeros kept a-comin like to blanket out the sun Cowboy cowboy

So they lay suspended dreaming of some kind of god With their limbs akimbo and extended to the mind of God Cowboy

And the night without regret says it's time to let your hair do wn low There they lay in silhouette he would say I'd stay yet have to go

King Kamehameha met with Captain Cook uopn the shore Lookin at all the cattle asked him What the hell are all these for? Cowboy cowboy Gone now is the forest and the lovers of the trees Now there is a chorus playing golf who say in Japanese Kau-boi
