Vancouver Sleep Clinic

I'd sunk in oceans blue Now they're all frozen over I should have took your hand We should have crossed the border

Because never again Means none of this at all Forever pretend In our shelters we don't fall

Falling short again I'm falling short again The ranges set so high And I could never climb Falling

It's so cold, I've come out Where's the all I have to show The knowledge that I've never known The garden that I failed to grow

Cause when the wreck is through and it's all consumed Maybe then baby, you'll tell me that we didn't cling to enough That we couldn't outlast the rough

Falling short again I'm falling short again The ranges set so high And I could never climb Falling

On my own I've been outgrown On my own I've been outgrown

We've been outgrown x5
