Vanna

Does Death divide us all by light the same way as the day decides the night is darkness just where it begins as I get closer does blindness set in
does death divide us all by light are we buried beneath the ocean or have the bodies we once had all turned to dust
does Death divide us all by light
the same way as the day decides the night
as I get closer does blindness set in look into these hollow eyes I've seen the dead come alive
I've seen the dead come alive
the dead come alive Forgive this face for goodness sakes what else could I do, this is my fate if finding death is happiness well then my friend wish me the best bring me your bones
bring me your bones
let them be my own
and let them be my own
