Forgive You

Use this time to step aside And look around with your feeble eyes Use this time to forget me Use these days to lie awake And feel the loss of my embrace But don't use anymore of me

And how do you say And how do you say "I forgive you"? And how do you know And how do you know When to choose to? And when to move along?

Use your hands to feel the man I gave my plan and off you went To find someone new who is not me Use your favorite photograph To play the recent memory back Are you still as cold as I am?

Well it started off a simple black and blue Hidden behind the untrue But now it's surfacing I need to be released From the love that was you From the love that was you

Cause I want to say And I want to say "I forgive you" And I want to know And I want to know When to choose to And when to move along And when to move along Vedera
