

All the Children Are Dead

Venetian Snares

In the cylindrical room, lit with a massive pit in the middle. He was listening and he could hear whispers and giggling, and things such as that. And that's when he heard the footsteps coming up the little ladder. And he walked into the cylindrical room, he saw movement, like, a mole burrowing beneath the ground, beneath the carcasses. He looked at me, and he said 'Do you believe in monsters, do you believe in demons?' There were 74 children murdered, one right after another. The mutilated carcasses floating on top of the water. The last thing we were to hear him say was 'All the children are dead.....all the children.....are dead. brutal...
