

See your father, son
Come sit and listen
I've been walking on a rather strange path
But here I am now unmasked

Take a deep breath
The monsters under your pillow
I've been passing over with silence
And I've been lying for as long as I could
So you could have your playgrounds

But now this time has come for you to know
Soon you'll start to like your sleep more and more

Because when you're awake, you'll see your life falling apart
Because when you're awake, you'll see your life falling apart
Because when you're awake, you'll see your life falling apart

And the stars and the skies you'll never reach them
You've been given a wish without being given the power to make it true..

Well well well my father, you may want to reconsider
Yet I've been told by adversary
I'm always free to change my mind
Choose a different future
Is it so?.. no!

[Solo]

"Look deep in my eyes past all the lies,
Past my act past this disguise,
Past the scars and past the tears,
You will see only fear."..

And this time up on the earth
Living by the "things will get better"
Holding the thoughts back will never save you from yourself
You are your own end