

I Am Watching

Visage

I thought that obsession would count for something
Now I'm staring through the glass as the rain comes down
And there are rooms you shouldn't go into
I see you by the door with the faintest smile

There's no reason you should see me (reason you should see me)
There's no reason you should know (I am here)
I don't want a thing from you now (want a thing from you now)
I just need to know you're there... I am watching

I thought that derision would help us through this
Now I'm standing in the trees with the sun in my eyes
There are calls you shouldn't pick up now
I hear you on the phone with the thinnest sigh

There's no reason you should see me (reason you should see me)
There's no reason you should know (I am here)
I don't want a thing from you now (want a thing from you now)
I just need to know you're there... I am watching

I am watching cos I do this all for you now
I am watching cos I do this all for you now
I just want to help you get through this
I just want to help you get through this
