Vision Divine

You and me A madman and his Angel to their final trip Drifting in a sullen sea, identities Divided by a tiny line we cannot see But I can feel your presence right here

Tell me where I've gone And where are my dreams and my desires? They just run away And I sit here with these empty words to tell

I can feel your Spirit falling down in me I feel your holy wings Calming down my fears and rage that slowly pass me by

Now I see That in this dark surrounding me I will find some peace And all the truth I needed was right here with me All the reasons why I lost my soul I can't get back Forgive me, if you can... I won't

Thanks for what you've done And for being how you are with me The sun is going down Don't keep me here waiting for the dawn alone I can feel your Spirit falling down in me I feel your holy wings Calming down my fears and rage that slowly pass me by

Here I am Is this the end I always have been searching for? The meaning of what I called life?
