

The Lighthouse

Vision Divine

In the night he called my name, I cannot forget Face of a child, Angel eyes In my dream he said today we'll find the way For the new world we've been craving Nothing more, then a sign out there
"Follow the light, you will find it"

A lighthouse in the dark
Like an answer to your many prayers
You'll find salvation
A lighthouse in the dark
Like an anchor in a stormy sea
Showing you all the way

The last words the angel said, made him change his face
From a big smile he turned grey
"You don't know the human race, your big mistake.
You'll see what I mean with your eyes"

Nothing more, then a sign out there
"follow the light, you will find it"

A lighthouse in the dark
Like an answer to your many prayers
You'll find salvation
A lighthouse in the dark
Like an anchor in a stormy sea
Showing you all the way

[HOME! After so many years, I cannot believe it. While all of the crew members are excited and use the capsules to leave the spaceship and to land on the new planet. I am the last one still aboard.
I ordered Elpis to turn everything off and to get ready for the stand-by in orbit, but before leaving myself to reach the new planet, I felt like writing a message on a sheet of paper, like the old mariners used to do. I put it into a bottle and I shot it in the direction of the Earth, even though I know that nobody will ever read it. This was my very last message to my old home...]
