

Sweet Memory

Vivian Green

It's just a sweet memory
Baby, of you and me
And how we used to be (Beautifully young)
Sometimes I just sit and smile
Thinking about you for a while
Wondering how you're doing now (So sweet)

I heard you were married, had a few babies
Put on a few pounds that grown men wait.
Heard you looked real good, making 6 figures
Well I could of figured
You were always ambitious
You went to college I did my singing thing
Moving around it's hard to stay in touch
But I missed you so much over the years
Just wanna give you a holler
And say "hey how ya doin' these days"

It's just a sweet memory
Baby, of you and me
And how we used to be (Beautifully young)
Sometimes I just sit and smile
Thinking about you for a while
Wondering how you're doing now (So sweet)

How you were so funny, had me in stitches
And now any men I date must make me laugh
You kissed me in places I thought I was goin to hell
I would never tell my momma that
You were sweet didn't take my virginity
Cause you saw the good in me
Even thought bout marrying me
The future we tried to see
We went opposite paths
No, everything doesn't last
But I wanted to say, "Hey how are ya doing these days"
I guess I don't know you no more
I wonder how much you've changed
We would still have the same chemistry
Will you still make me laugh?
Will we still have a blast?
Are you happy?
Have you done all the things you've wanted to?

One thing I wanna do is see you
And just chill, just talk, and reminisce
It would make me so happy
If we could do this

It's just a sweet memory
Baby, of you and me
And how we used to be (Beautifully young)
Sometimes I just sit and smile
Thinking about you for a while
Wondering how you're doing now (So sweet)
(Repeat to fade)
