

Why can't we just skip to the good part
Why do we play these silly games
To get to the heart of the matter that's in our hearts
We go round and round again and again

By the time you come around
I'll be tired of being kept down

I don't trust you but I love you
I don't trust you but I love you
And I'm in the game ... anyway

When will you see how right we are
Where will I be when that light shines
And gives you sight of what you were too blind to see
The soul you could have saved was mine

By the time you notice me
I'll be too far off to see
I'm the one that you'll think of
When you want to know true love

It all stays the same ... anyway

I wanted to believe you

I'm the one that you'll think of
When you want to know true love

I'll never stay ... anyway

Never gonna trust you but I'll always love you, always love you
