Ask the Lonely

Vonda Shepard

Just ask the lonely When you feel That you can make it all alone Remember no one is big enough To go it all alone

Just ask the lonely They know the hurting pain Of losing the love You can never regain Just ask the lonely

The young and foolish Who laugh at love and slowly run away Confident and sure that fate Will bring another love their way

But ask the lonely How vainly a heart can yearn For losing a love That will never return Just ask the lonely Just ask the lonely Just ask the lonely

They'll tell you a story of sadness A story too hard to believe They'll tell you The lonliest one is me

Just ask the lonely Just ask the lonely Just ask the lonely Ask me, I'm the loneliest one of all
