

Kingdom of the Blind

Voodoo Circle

The fire it burns in you
But you are blinded by the flames
So you were lost in fury
The fear you'd take the blame
Couldn't see your destiny
The one that seemed so strong
A victim of society, a victim of your hate

Open your eyes, what do you see?
All that you've known is now gone
Witness the man, you'll never be, in this paradise.

There's no time for praying, only waiting
In the kingdom of the blind
And the gods have made an order
For the future of mankind.
But the only one who can see the light
In the kingdom of the blind
Is the one caused disorder
And solace you will find
In the kingdom of the blind

Just a heart made of stone
With no desire, to ease the pain
Only lies to serve for comfort
It all just seemed in vain
You couldn't face blatant truth
You're just a devil in disguise
Can't deny your wasted youth
When the blind leads the blind

Open your eyes, what do you see?
All that you've had is long gone
Witness the man, you'll never be, in your paradise.