

Still Believe in Us

W.E.T.

Somewhere tonight a young girl fears believin'
Somewhere tonight someone steals a freedom
And nobody hears
That a heart is breaking
A silent scream

There is blood on many streets
Mothers, sisters, brothers crying
Pain on my TV each night

Do you still believe in love
Do you still believe in trust
Do you still believe
That everything can change
We can make a better day
Are we close to giving up
We've had just about enough
Do you still believe in us

No bed to sleep in he lives on what he's handed
No roof to protect the things we take for granted
A family of four
Headlines read their lives were taken
Casualties of war ...

Do you still believe in love
Do you still believe in trust
Do you still believe
That everything can change
We can make a better day
Are we close to giving up
I've had just about enough
Do you still believe in love

Were all hungry but in many different ways
Were all thirsty but the wells run dry
Are we drowning in the rain
We all need someone to hold
When the nights are getting cold

Everything can change
We can make a better day
Are we close to giving up
I've had just about enough
Just about enough, whoa

Everything can change
We can make a better day
Are we close to giving up
I've had just about enough
I still believe in love
I still believe in trust
And I still believe in us
