

It all changes so quickly
You dress away insecurity
And your friends prevent you
From forming identity

What is everyone else doing?
What kind of identity crisis is the most common?

Where the hell are you today?
And who really cares?