Parental

Wardrum

I know I'll never be The one they want to see It's no fact that I lack good will The one they're looking for I want to be no more I got my own thing for real

The one I really feel

Injection of dreams is no affection, We need no blood relation when choosing our own trail Dreaming can't do without believing I got my own winds breathing their hope into my sail

I know I'll never be What might have set them free I'm overtaking my own fears The one they're looking for I cannot be for sure I have to wipe my own tears

That's what I really feel

Injection of dreams is no affection, We need no blood relation when choosing our own trail Dreaming can't do without believing I got my own winds breathing their hope into my sail

Set me free, leave me alone, to my own world I cannot be just a part of your play anymore

Injection of dreams is no affection, We need no blood relation when choosing our own trail Dreaming can't do without believing I got my own winds breathing their hope into my sail