

Sign of Treason

Wardrum

Lost in your moves now you dance upon a new tale
In future halls you descend with eyes that seek Worries untold hover round like boats with no sail
A lethal sword sways above us while we speak

I see it in our eyes
They're breaking all the ties

Our needs will form the sign of treason
But there's no reason to start a new war
This is the end with scars reminding
All that's been binding us with before

There's still a chance in the fields that we've been roaming
Yet for the plan of new hope we got no ground
New views erase all the answers we've been longing
Among old fears of our inner selves spellbound

I see it in our eyes
They're breaking all the ties

Our needs will form the sign of treason
But there's no reason to start a new war
This is the end with scars reminding
All that's been binding us with before