

And the beat goes on

And the beat goes on
Each one of us is unique
But we are being stitched together to form a tapestry
Something larger that can't be understood
Until we step back to see the whole thing

At some point, we all wake up
And then we have to choose
None of us are in this alone

Each one of us is unique
But we are being stitched together to form a tapestry
Something larger that can't be understood
Until we step back to see the whole thing