

Where Will You Stay

Weeping Willows

Everything you do will come back to you
Whatever you say, you'll have to answer for it one day
You've caused so much pain
Why did you do it again?
Whatever you say, you'll have to answer for it one day
But you can't erase the scars and the shame
It's a long way `til the end of your day
And when you've locked yourself out, where will you stay?
When you've locked yourself out, where will you stay?
The trouble you've made brought sorrow and rage
I know you can't run from all the evil things that you've done
Her body is bruised, her feelings abused
I know you can't hide `cause what you did will stay on your mind
There will be no peace or comfort to find
It's a long way