

I Get Weak

Westlife

My love, my heart
Oh bruised and broken, all alone when we're apart
I die inside,
Oh this room is like a battlefield of love tonight
I know I should be stronger but I lose all control
Fighting with myself tryna hide what you don't know

But I get weak
I'm giving it all away
I know it's not wise to leave myself so opened but
All the rules get broken in your eyes
I give it all up to you
And everything that's been keeping me together
Brings me to my knees
I get weak

One look, one touch
Oh I'm helplessly pretending you don't mean that much
It gets so hard
The waiting here forever with this shattered heart
Lying to myself tryna act like I don't care, no
The way it's killing me every time that you're not there

Cause I get weak
I'm giving it all away
I know it's not wise to leave myself so opened but
All the rules get broken in your eyes
I give it all up to you
And everything that's been keeping me together
Brings me to my knees
I get weak

I get weak
And all the walls I've been building up
Just crack and then break when you're around
I get weak
And nothing I do to fight it matters now

I get weak
I'm giving it all away
I know it's not wise to leave myself so opened but
All the rules get broken in your eyes
I give it all up to you
And everything that's been keeping me together
Brings me to my knees

I get weak (oh)
I get weak (oh)
I get weak (oh)

All the rules get broken in your eyes
I give it all up to you
And everything that's been keeping me together
Brings me to my knees