

You Must Have Had A Broken Heart

Westlife

The way you say the things you do
The softness of the words you choose
The times that you can read my mind
And take my worries outta sight
The fingers touching on my lips
That say a kiss is still a kiss
And when you look at me I see
I see the pain that you had to feel

R: You must have had a broken heart
To love me the way you do
Must have been so torn apart
I can see it when I look at you
Oh the meaning that is in your eyes
The love you give will never die
And I knew right from the start
You must have had a broken heart

You seem to have that certain smile
I can't forget after a while
The day you walked into the room
At once I knew the hurt
That you've been through

R: You must have had a broken heart...

Sometimes when it's late at night
And I see your face in the firelight
Showing all the love you have for me
Will I love you as much

R: You must have had a broken heart...

Sometimes, Sometimes
Must have had a broken heart, yeah
For the meaning that is in your eyes
The love you give will never die
And I knew right from the start
You must have had a broken heart
Sometimes
