Standing In The Shadow

Whitesnake

I'm running away from a feeling Hiding my face in the sand I'm scared to love and lose again I don't know if I can I don't need the night to remind me Where the lonely people go I try running away from love But, my heart keeps telling me no

Too many people Standing in the shadow of love Too many people Are standing in the shadow Standing in the shadow of love

I've been living so long in the darkness I know the cold embrace of the night, When morning comes I close my eyes 'Cos I'm blinded with the light Taking a chance of a feeling Is like waiting for a flower to grow, So I stand at the crossroad, baby, Wondering which way to go

Too many people Standing in the shadow of love Too many people Are standing in the shadow. Standing in the shadow of love

I'm running away from a feeling, Hiding my face in the sand I'm scared to love and lose again I don't know if I can I don't need the night to remind me Where the lonely people go I try running away from love But, my heart keeps telling me no

Too many people Standing in the shadow of love, Too Many people Are standing in the shadow, Standing in the shadow of love...
