Let's Start A Family

Saturday and we sleep late Usually we're up by eight A swim it calls, a swim awaits No work to do today Strange how you would stray And drink and such odd things This is what the city brings

(doo-doo-doo)

Evening calls and old folks fall The phone is ringing down the hall I told my friends not to call That you were getting well You still refuse to tell Where you'd been out so long Coming home at dawn

(doo-doo-doo)

Lately I'm forgotten here Isolated, feeling queer When you were looking in the mirror Did you see the future's lies They march right on in time And straight into the pool Oh so quick and cool
