

Misery Mansion

Willie Nelson

Misery mansion, so old and so gray
You looked so lonely since she went away
Misery mansion, what secret you hide
Of a love that has faded and died

Misery mansion, oh how you changed
Your walls hold the sorrow that loneliness brings
A love of a life time forever is gone
Misery mansion, my home

You know all the reasons why she said goodbye
And you stand there in silence while I sit and cry
Misery mansion, we're both so alone
Misery mansion, my home
