

Tides Of Change

Winds of Plague

Soon the rains will come to wash away the blood
The empire walls will crumble into dusts and the trees will retake the land
And when all is said and done the human race will only be a mere footprint in the sand soon to be washed away.