Inception Perspective

A burst of flames from a radiant glow Indeed they are the essence of beauty The source of all creation

In wonder and amazement i stare at them The shining light from a veil of bright stars

Silently in the night They whisper to me the words of life As i become aware of my existence

Winds