

Another world

Winterborn

Spirits are calling, whispering your name

Can you hear them calling?

Calling you from other side of life

Can you see it now, things get moved around?

Do you believe in dreams, do you believe in prophecies, can things be foreseen?

In dreams and prophecies

From other side, behind the doors of death, through boundaries of time

For my dying soul, is there life, is there place to go?

After all, where do we go? Truth unseen, grand mystery

There must be something that we haven't seen

Our disbelief has made us blind

Is there anyone there?

Who'll open these eyes of disbelievers

Is there anyone there?

In the dreams that we see

Another world, beyond this all we see

Through all this vanity

Is there anyone there?

Some things we don't see, we can't believe

They are those who have died and live on

They're caught inside the spirit world, misguided souls

I hear the voices calling, I feel the presence in the air

Are we alone in this wheel of life

And after all, what do we left behind?

Astral projections and deja-vus

Telepathy, can we deny?

Is there anyone there?

Who'll open these eyes of disbelievers

Is there anyone there?

In the dreams that we see

Another world, beyond this all we see

Through all this vanity

Is there anyone there?

Some things we don't see, we can't believe

Spirits are calling, whispering your name

From other side, behind the doors of death, through boundaries of time

For my dying soul, is there life, is there place to go?

Can you see the signs of another world?

There must be another world
