Wildheart

Winterborn

He's been a drifter all his life He's been to places that you will never find And all the things, and all the lies He has seen the betrayal a million times

Every time he looked around, there was nobody there That he could trust, full of lies they were Now everytime he will be, the one who don't care About anything and anyone no more

So full of lies Oh, no more Won't pay the price Oh, no more

And forever he will travel on No need to find his place Only broken hearts he left behind There is noone who can tame this Wildheart

Out from the shadows, into the light One of a kind, you can't stop him tonight Still moving on from town to town He is dressed into veil of mystery

Like a tiger in a cage, there's no chains he can't break Can't tie him down, there's no use to try Now just look into his eyes, you can't break the ice A heart of stone wants noone 'round

Can't tie him down Oh, no one No one around Oh, around

And forever he will travel on No need to find his place Only broken hearts he left behind There is noone who can tame this Wildheart

He'll find his way, don't care about the pain Though the trail of tears he'll march on every day No one to blame, still feeds the flame Oh, for this burning heart

And forever he will travel on No need to find his place Only broken hearts he left behind There is noone who can tame this Wildheart
