Valediction

Wishbone Ash

Breathing is a sin they say Loneliness the price to pay Sad for you I go once more I'll dry my eyes on a distant shore

No way of freezing a rising tide No way of keeping you by my side Like a bird I'll fly high Guarding over this love of mine

A room of trust a room of fears A room of laughter with a few sweet tears There we lay that sunny dawn Calm but helpless as we lingered on

No way of breaking the march of time No way of keeping our love sublime Like a bird I'll fly high Watching over this love of mine

Many times we hurry by Lose our problems in a knowing smile Many days were swept along Left unnoticed as our love grew strong

Believing each of us would always know Believing one of us would never go Like a bird I'll fly high Watching over this love of mine
