Angry Today

Wolfsheim

You see shocking posters shouting at you Somewhere from a subway wall Full of promises and glory And the cutest headlines that you ever saw You have to read and to believe That all these things, that they have the worth But, if you look a little closer You're always aiming to unmask the dirt

Angry today... And all alone you're on this planet Earth Angry today... And you're the only one who understands

You have your own life you can waste And lovers you can cheat That strange addiction to decay is haunting you Haunting you, haunting you

I've """ ... my friend from the ... to the government Here and there and anywhere The human preach is rage The standard could advance you While standing alone on the other side That's why I'm angry today

Angry today... And all alone you're on this planet Earth Angry today... And you're the only one who understands

A politician signs all contracts With a light expression on his face While all prophets are simply singing Lullabies for the human race When love is with of us one day We will have left at least And step-mother industry's whispering softly to me

(4x)
Angry today...
And all alone you're on this planet Earth
Angry today...
And you're the only one who understands

Angry...