Archers

Wovenwar

We spent a decade building a band of brothers to the bone, and it showed

From the reef's kiss calling to the resistance rise we wrote We walked through fire blind
The march echoes for all time

But now the seasons changing
The turning tide
I've raised my sail to coming storm or calm alike

We honed a humble phalanx to raze the arrogance in foes, and it showed

We found a fraud in a Bishop, and built a nation of flawed sons We walked through fire blind The march echoes for all time

But now the seasons changing
The turning tide
I've raised my sail to coming storm or calm alike
And though my vessels lone-manned with brazen broken hull
The waves will never take an armored archer core, an armored archer core

A means to believe A reverie I couldn't reach Never made a difference to me

Go on, our brother You've only just begun Live long with honor From our fire you are born

But now the seasons changing
The turning tide
I've raised my sail to coming storm or calm alike
And though my vessels lone-manned with brazen broken hull
The waves will never take an armored archer core

But now the seasons changing
The turning tide I've raised my sail to coming storm or calm al ike, storm or calm alike, storm or calm alike