The 12th of September

It's come to our attention Life now is bound to change While we the peaceful majority We sit back and anticipate

These are our days now These are not the same now These are not the same These human beings are dangerous Their greed is contagious Now the world it waits

These people they attacked our freedom Their weapons technology and hate Lives were stolen without warning Brothers and sisters now erased

These are our days now These are not the same now These are not the same These human beings are dangerous Their greed is contagious Now the world it waits

Xavier Rudd