

The Decision

Years Since The Storm

Standing at the crossroads.
The hour grows late.
I have tasted the road less traveled.
So this is the path I will take.
And this is the decision that I have made!
This world is too beautiful to be left unseen!
With a life too short and a chance too slim.
To be anything but grateful.
I have chosen to be the pen.
I'll lay my life down as parchment.
My future will not come from someone else's pocket.
Life is way too short to indulge in such guilty pleasures.
This is a time for drastic measures.
I'd rather live with my mistakes, than live a life with regrets.

One life is all we got!
You never know the worth of water till the well is dry.
I was brainwashed before.
But, now my eyes are opened wide.
This is everything I've worked for.
I wanted nothing handed to me!
I will leave no stone unturned, and no thoughts unspoken.
I've got my priorities straightened out.
This is the life I've chosen.
And I'm willing to risk it all.
I will not feel guilty for the life I chosen.
I'm willing to risk it all. I will not feel guilty. I will not feel guilty.
I will not feel guilty. I will not feel...