

Run, Run, Run

Yoko Ono

I was sitting in the field, feeling the grass.
Counting the stars as they come out.
Feeling (feeling) the breeze, (feeling the breeze)
Feeling (feeling) the spring. (feeling the spring)
Suddenly I noticed there wasnt light anymore.

Run, run, run, run, run to the light,
Run, run, run, run, run for your life.

I tumbled on roots, stumbled on stones.
Lost my marbles, stepped on my glasses.
Feeling (feeling) the air, (feeling the air)
Feeling (feeling) the wind. (feeling the wind)
Suddenly I noticed it wasnt fun anymore.

Run, run, run, run, run towards the light,
Run, run, run, run, run for your life.

I came out of the darkness into the house,
The lights were left on but nobody around.
Feeling (feeling) the room, (feeling the room)
Feeling (feeling) the space. (feeling the space)
Suddenly I noticed it wasnt spring anymore.

Run, run, run, run, run through your life,
Run, run, run, run, run for your life.

(run, run, run, run, run through your life)
(run, run, run, run, run for your life)

Run, run, run, run, run through your life,
Run, run, run, run, run for your life.

(run, run, run, run, run through your life)
For your life.
(run, run, run, run, run for your life)
Run -

(run, run, run, run, run through your life)
For your life.
(run, run, run, run, run for your life)
For your life.

(run, run, run, run, run through your life)
Run, run.
(run, run, run, run, run for your life)
For your life.

(run, run, run, run, run through your life)
For your life.
(run, run, run, run, run for your life)
For your life.

(run, run, run, run, run for your life)