

We're In!

Youth Brigade

I should have known our time had come and gone just move aside and let the young punks ride in complete capitulation, we had our day is there anything left to say. Old punks don't die they just cash in i should have seen the videos on the screen selling out our souls for platinum green radio friendly and marketability the new language of the scene punk was finally in said rolling stone and spin old punks don't die, they just cash in. I must admit i don't go in the pit like i used to anymore stealing the bands beer to share out on the floor i try to hang out, but i tire faster now yes i still believe i have that punk disease but fighting in the streets is so hard on the feet i find my support greater smoozing backstage.
