

Every Little Bit

Zac Brown Band

You come walking in to the room with a smile on your face
And I keep wondering what a girl like you is doin' in this place

I catch your eye, you're lookin' at me and I spill my drink
From over here, that smile on your face it makes me think
Can you make me want to be a better man?

You got to have strength to bring me back from where it is I've been

Can you make me want to be a better man

Cause I'm gonna need, every little bit of your love

(Every little bit, every little bit, every little bit of your love)

Every little bit of your love

(Every little bit, every little bit, every little bit of your love)

Last time I held a woman in my arms this tight

I thought she was anything and everything I'd ever really need in my life

But just like every other woman she couldn't handle my foolish ways

And if you're lookin' for a lover there's a few things I have to say

Can you make me want to be a better man?

You got to have strength to bring me back from where it is I've been

Can you make me want to be a better man

Cause I'm gonna need, every little bit of your love

(Every little bit, every little bit, every little bit of your love)

every little bit of your love

(Every little bit, every little bit, every little bit of your love)

Coming down, yeah, she covers me

Every bit of a lady

And casting down my anxiety

My, oh my, isn't she lovely?

(Every little bit of your love)

Can you make me want to be a better man?

You got to have strength to bring me back from where it is I've been

Can you make me want to be a better man

Cause I'm gonna need, every little bit of your love

(Every little bit, every little bit, every little bit of your love)

every little bit of your love

(Every little bit, every little bit, every little bit of your love)

(Every little bit, every little bit, every little bit of your love)

(Every little bit, every little bit, every little bit of your love)

(Every little bit, every little bit, every little bit of your love)

(Every little bit, every little bit, every little bit of your love)...

Yeahh...