Today

Sirens sounding out, are we going to war A film of yesterday on a broken down door Send me something real to ignore or explore And I'll show you all the things that I saw Today The words don't mean enough for us to say For us to say Today To steal the moment that we gave away We gave away Gave it away Can't remember when, but it's happened before Saw it all played out through a crack in the door Send me something good for the way that I feel And I'll show you all the things that I've seen Today The words don't mean enough for us to say For us to say Today To steal the moment that we gave away We gave away Today We are the light that travels into space Into space We are the light that travels into space
